

COMMERCIAL

GAZETTE OFFICE, March 12.—Business in local market fairly active with increase in prices for most staples in the grocery line, with the exception of hog products, which remain stationary. The active trade in fruits and vegetables continues, and prices are firm. There is no material change in the produce market, most of the lines being steady and with a moderate demand. The cotton market continues quiet with quotations remain steady. The shipments east are larger, the routes are no longer blocked on account of high waters. Cotton rules somewhat higher, caused by the supply not equaling demand. The cotton bagging manufacture of the United States is represented by twenty-eight firms, most of which are located in the eastern or western states. In the aggregate they control very large capital, but in the last year or two, notably in 1882, the scale of prices was so low that several of the larger concerns were forced to suspend, and both small and large concerns failed to make their business profitable. The warehouse men have decided to charge for the storage of flour 4 cents per barrel for the first month and 3 cents for subsequent months. This is on a basis that governs the charge on all grades, and is an advance of 30 per cent. Nails have been advanced to 12 1/2 cent per month. Only one firm refuses to ratify the agreement, but it is believed that the tariff will be unanimously accepted.
